

December Substitute Teacher by Kenn Nesbitt

Our substitute is strange because he looks a lot like Santa Claus.
In fact, the moment he walked in we thought that he was Santa's twin.

Lily B, Finn, Louise

We wouldn't think it quite so weird,
if it was just his snowy beard.
But also he has big, black boots
and wears these fuzzy bright red suits.

Calan, George, Georgia

He's got a rather rounded gut
that's like a bowl of you-know-what.
And when he laughs, it's deep and low and sounds a lot like "Ho! Ho! Ho!"

Jessica, Rhys, Xavier

He asks us all if we've been good and sleeping when we know we should.
He talks of reindeers, sleighs and elves,
and tells us to behave ourselves.

Luca, Tia, Hugo

And when it's time for us to go
he dashes out into the snow.
But yesterday we figured out
just what our sub is all about.

Dylan, Seth, Vinny

We know just why he leaves so quick,
and why he's dressed like Old Saint Nick
in hat and coat and boots and all:
He's working evenings at the mall.

All the above children
together.
