

The Phases of the Moon

Find out about the phases of the moon from these websites and videos.

Once you know how and why the moon changes over the month, make your own phases of the moon chart.

If you want to, you can draw or colour this.

Or, if you want to be more adventurous, you could try to find a food source at home you could shape like the moon in its different phases (eg take different sized bites out of Digestive biscuits - you might need your whole family for this one so you don't end up feeling sick! - or use slices of apple or satsuma segments! Having seen some photos of the lovely baking many of you do, you could bake your own moon phase cookies!)

However you decide to represent it, take a photo of your moon phase chart and upload this to the website.
